A Prize for a Model Husband's Wife.

The $100 prize has been awarded to Mrs. C. K. Hood, of Brooklyn.

The thousands of letters which were received in the contest were carefully read, and the judges, consisting of Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, Mrs. Chauncey M. Dewey and Mrs. William C. Whitney, after careful examination, unanimously decided in favor of the following:

"Free from all manly (?) vices, personally clean and orderly, into our utmost privacy he brings the tender courtesies of a gentleman. Our home making is a delightful partnership, one supplementing the other with every assistance, he always considerate of the woman's responsibilities, but leaving at his office the annoyances of a business man. In sickness or health there is always the responsive thrill of a single interest. Perfect love casteth out fear, and our freedom of speech and action leaves no occasion for any petty tricks of deception, alas! so common."

"Above this is high ideal of woman that helps me produce something better than before recognized in myself. Receptive to my aspirations, no new thought or culture is attempted but meets his approval and encouragement, while a noble spiritual atmosphere lifts my daily life from a common routine into a loving pleasure. Taking my face in his hands he has lovingly said, 'Would I had wealth that I could place you a queen among women!' With such a king for a husband, am I not walking in a queen's garden?"

Neither of the judges knew the name of the writer of either letter, and the prize was awarded wholly upon merit.—New York World.

Mrs. Palmer, President.

In electing Mrs. Potter Palmer president of the lady managers of the Chicago World's fair the right person was put in the right place.

As is well known, Mrs. Palmer was a Miss Honore, a member of a distinguished southern family and a sister of the beautiful wife of Col. Fred Grant, the eldest son of Gen. Grant, and our present minister to Austria. Mrs. Palmer's husband, who is a millionaire, built the Palmer house, of Chicago. The Palmers live in one of the north side palaces of Chicago, facing the lake. Their house is a copy of an English castle, and is considered one of the finest residences in America. Mrs. Palmer makes annual trips to Europe, and has purchased some of the finest and rarest tapestries, statuary and bric-a-brac, to say nothing of valuable paintings.

Mrs. Palmer is even more beautiful than her sister, Mrs. Grant. She has dark hair and eyes, is tall and slight, with an air of elegance that is most attractive. She talks with remarkable grace and ease. She seems to understand parliamentary rules thoroughly, for she presides with great ability and dignity.—Epoch.

A Most Remarkable Woman.

One of the most remarkable women that America has produced was the late Miss Emma Willard. For many years at the head of the Willard Female Seminary in Troy, N. Y., she was a noted writer, the author of several popular histories, and enjoyed the warm friendship of a number of eminent men and women, including several presidents, from the time of Monroe up to the beginning of the War of the Rebellion. She died in 1870, and a number of her former pupils and friends have set about the work of collecting $15,000 for the purpose of erecting a monument to her memory. It will be the first public statue erected in America for the honor of woman's work in the elevation of her sex. The president of the association having the matter in charge is Mrs. C. L. MacArthur, wife of the well known editor of The Troy Northern Budget, and the corresponding secretary is Mrs. William S. Kennedy. These, as well as the treasurer, Mr. Francis M. Mann, Jr., reside in Troy.—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.

The Gas Company Pays Damages.

In the case of Gertrude M. McNeal against the Boston Gas Light company, which has been on trial in the second session of the superior court, and in which the plaintiff claimed $30,000 for personal injuries, a jury awarded her damages in the sum of $9,000. Miss McNeal was employed in a store, and an employee of the company, in testing a meter, left a trap door open, through which Miss McNeal fell. Her injuries are of a permanent nature, as testified to by several well known physicians, and the defense, while not attempting to contradict that evidence, claimed that the surroundings of the plaintiff were not of that quiet nature which a person in her condition ought to have. Before the trial began an offer of $7,000 was made by the defendant in settlement.—Boston Journal.

ELECTING SENATORS BY POPULAR VOTE.

A bill is now before the House of Representatives providing for an amendment to the Constitution for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. This bill seems to be in accord with public opinion, as several State Conventions have declared for such a change. To adopt the desired amendment the bill will have to pass both Houses of Congress by a two-thirds majority of each House, and must then be ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the States. This requires time and as the proposed amendment, though introduced early in the session, has not yet been reported back by the committee to whom it was referred, it is not likely to receive the sanction of this Congress.

While in nearly all the new States, so far as party platforms and the public press indicate, the amendment would receive the approval of the people, it would meet with opposition in the older and more conservative States east of the Ohio, though there seems to be no valid reason why Senators as well as Representatives should not be elected by the popular vote, except that the framers of the Constitution provided that Senators shall be elected by the Legislatures of the several States.

If the Nevada Legislature, which is to convene next Monday, is of the opinion that it would be more satisfactory to the people to be permitted to vote direct for United States Senators than to restrict the choice to members of the Legislature, it should memorialize Congress at once to pass the bill providing for the change in the Constitution.

THE SENATE FREE COINAGE BILL.

According to the dispatches from Washington the Senate Financial bill which Sherman, of Ohio, introduced, was defeated and an entire new bill substituted therefor, which passed the Senate by a vote of 39 to 27. The full text of this bill is given in the telegraph columns of the JOURNAL.

It covers the ground which the real friends of silver have been contending for and places the product of the silver mine on an equality with that of the gold mine at the mint of the United States.

Stewart, in advocacy of this measure proclaimed on the floor of the Senate that the provisions of the financial bill "were for the relief of gamblers in silver bullion, and the National Bank Corporations."

The bill now goes to the House where its fate, to a great extent, will be determined by the action of Speaker Reed and the Committee on Coinage, to whom it will doubtless be referred. That Committee may load it with amendments so that its friends will not own it, or may piggy-back it until the end of the session. Its passage would be of great benefit to Nevada, as it would send silver up to market, create a demand for mines, give employment to many now seeking work, make a home market for the products of the farm and instill new life into decaying mining camps.

Possibly the majority in the House, which opposed a free coinage bill last summer, may have learned something from the November election and will now support such a measure as the people at the polls in almost every State east of the Rocky Mountains declared they should do.

Members of legislative bodies are sometimes very inconsistent. The California Legislature elected Senator Stanford to a second term a few days ago, yet the introduction in that body of a resolution to memorialize Congress to pass the bill introduced by Senator Stanford authorizing the Government to loan money on land, caused a row which may result in bloodshed.

Commissioner Groff, of the General Land Office, informed Secretary Noble that the time for the acquisition of rights by settler to forfeited railroad lands is limited to six months, one-half of which time has passed. As the railroad companies will contest the Forfeiture Act, Commissioner Groff recommends that the time for acquisition of rights be extended.

The ninth annual dinner of the Thirteen Club of New York City was given Wednesday night, it being the ninth anniversary of its organization. The principal object of the Club is to disprove the superstition that if thirteen sit down to dinner one of the number is certain to die within a year.

Senator McConnell has prepared a bill which provides that the Government may foreclose its mortgage on the Union and Central Pacific Railroads, and after paying the outstanding indebtedness operate the roads by leasing them to the highest bidder for a term of 99 years.

The people of Sherman county, Western Kansas, are in a desolate condition, and aid is being solicited for them. The crops have failed for five years, and the settlers are starving from want of food, and freeze to want of fuel and clothing.

Bishop A. J. B. Jenner of the Anglican Free Church of Detroit, Mich., was fined $25 for cutting down the shade trees in front of his residence in violation of a city ordinance.

There is not a saloon in De Kalb county, Mo., and no liquor is kept in the drug stores even for medicinal purposes. If a man wants a drink he must go to the nearest town.

The Force Bill Up Again—A New Pacific Railroad Bill—The Treasurer to Issue $850,000,000 to Pay the Debts of the Roads.

Text of the Free Coinage Bill.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—The Free Coinage bill passed by the Senate last night is substantially as follows:

An Act to Provide for Free Coinage of Gold and Silver Bullion and for Other Purposes.

Section 1. That from and after the date of the passage of this Act the unit of value in the United States shall be a dollar and the same may be coined of four hundred and twelve and one-half grains, standard silver, or twenty-five and eight-tenths grains standard gold, and said coins shall be a legal tender for all debts, public and private; that hereafter any owner of silver or gold bullion may deposit the same at any mint of the United States to be formed into standard dollars or bars for his benefit, and without charge. But it shall be lawful to refuse any deposit of less value than one hundred dollars or any bullion so deposited as to be unsuitable for the operations of the mint.

Sec. 2. The provision of Section Three of "An Act to Authorize the Coinage of the Standard Silver Dollar and to restore its Legal Tender Character," which breaks the law of February 28th, 1878, is hereby made applicable to the coinage in this Act provided for.

Sec. 3. That the certificates provided for in the Second Section of this Act shall be of denominations not less than one nor more than one hundred dollars, and such certificates shall be redeemable in coin of standard value. A sufficient sum to carry out the provisions of this Act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. So much of the Act of July 14th, 1890, entitled "An Act Directing the Passage of Silver Bullion and the Issue of Treasury Notes and for Other Purposes," as requires the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion per month be and the same is hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. The certificates provided for in this Act, and all silver and gold certificates already issued, shall be receivable for all taxes and dues to the United States of any description, and shall be a legal tender for the payment of all debts, public and private.

Sec. 5. The owners of bullion deposited or coined shall have the option to receive coin or its equivalent in the certificates provided for in this Act, and such bullion shall be subsequently coined.

Prospects of Free Coinage.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—The Free Coinage bill was received from the Senate, and its reception was greeted with applause from the Democratic side.

The Speaker announced the appointment of the special committee for the investigation of the silver pool as follows: Dingey, Payne, Rowell, Dockery and Oates. Dockery, however, declined, and Peel of Arkansas was appointed in his place.

The bill providing for the erection of a public building at Portland, Or., was agreed to.

The Senate Silver bill went to the Committee on Coinage.

After considering some conference reports the House adjourned.

How It Affected Wall Street.

Special to the Journal.

NEW YORK, January 15.—The passage of the new Silver bill was a most influential element on Wall street this morning. At first prices were invariably lower than for last evening, the losses being generally small fractions. Silver certificates opened unchanged at 107 1/2 and a sharp decline to 105 1/2 followed. The declining tendency was general along the list, but was soon checked and everything was brought up to about the level of last night's figures.

Senate Proceedings.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Dawes, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported a resolution, (which was referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses), directing an exhaustive inquiry into the condition of the Indians in North and South Dakota, Montana and elsewhere.

Manderson introduced a bill to establish a branch mint at Omaha, Nebraska, and McConnell one for a mint at Boise City, Idaho.

Morgan offered a Preamble and Concurrent Resolution on the subject of the recent proceedings in the Supreme Court in connection with the Bering Sea dispute. The Resolution declares such proceedings without precedent and prejudicial to the comity of Nations and to the usual and amicable conduct of international relations and not in consonance with the dignity of the Government and people, or with the respect due to the President of the United States—referred.

The Elections bill was taken up and Evans spoke at length in advocacy of it. He particularly scored the new Constitution of Mississippi in so far as it related to elections and suffrage.

Pascoe obtained the floor and the bill was laid aside informally.

Hoar gave notice that to-morrow he should ask the Senate to remain in session until the Elections bill is finished. The Senate adjourned.

A Tale of Summer Days.
A tale of roses and roguery is wafted from the last midsummer days. It was at a seaside resort, and a young man, a veritable Prince Charming, before whom all women go down and who cannot help "practicing" when he is near a pretty girl, was at his usual occupation—devoted to several of them at once. He counted, in fact, this time four victims to his attractions. As two, however, were at the hotel on the beach and the other pair in separate cottages in different directions, he had managed to make all happy without any clashing.

Just before the season closed, however, the fair cottagers went with their parents to pass a few days at the hotel en route to their city homes. Four sweethearts under one roof were too much for even this clever campaigner. He concluded that the situation was too complicated for him, and a prompt departure was arranged for. The evening he left he managed to see each girl separately and to murmur in her ear a tender tale of love. He would take no decided answer then, but if his affection was returned he begged her to wear at breakfast the next morning a red rose which he gently pressed upon her. The last interview took place about 11 p. m., and the midnight train bore the young scamp to New York.

At the first meal on the following day four young women appeared in the dining room with red roses thrust in their belts. The gay cavalier not presenting himself the girls after a time began to compare notes, and all that worries those deceived damsels is to know whether their joint lover had any means to discover how many of his roses were worn at the breakfast table.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

A Duck Hunter's Adventure.

Martin Boland, of North Lyme, had an exciting experience while duck shooting Monday, and thanks his lucky stars every morning for the fact that he is still in the land of the living. He had been about the mouth of Lord's Cove nearly all the day and had met with fair success, and had loaded his decoys into his small duck boat, intending to start home. Just then he heard the loud "honk" of wild geese, and a moment later saw a flock of some twenty of these waterfowl settle in the river about half way from shore to shore.

He resolved to have one of these geese on his string, and attempted to scull near enough to get a shot. He kept his eyes on the birds, and consequently did not see a huge cake of ice that was bearing down upon his craft. He realized it, though, when a mass ground up against the boat, overturning it and throwing him into the chilly water. His gun, a Colt's breechloader, fell from his hand and went to the bottom of the river, and is likely to remain there. Boland had a hard fight, and when, after a desperate effort he succeeded in pulling himself upon the ice, he fell exhausted.

His danger was not past by any means, as he had no means of gaining the shore, and it was with a heart full of anxiety that he saw the distance between his ice raft and shore rapidly diminish, until seized by an eddy it whirled into the shoal water and he was safe.—Hartford Times.

An Airship to Cross the Ocean.

A remarkable experiment is going on not far from London in a pretty little Kentish town called Berkley. Here a party of American scientists and artisans are constructing an airship which is expected to cross the ocean in seven hours. The inventor, capitalists and workers are nearly all from Bridgeport, Conn., and are confident of success. By invitation I ran down there and saw a mysterious mass of metal and machinery, of which I could make nothing intelligible. I did see models, however, which rose from the table and flew around the interior of the great work room, describing circles and curves at the will of the sender.

If the complete ship does half as well as the model it will revolutionize the world. Every workman is sworn to absolute secrecy, and thus far little or no information as to what the mechanism is has reached the outside world. The superintendent is Hiram Maxim, an American inventor of ability. Next to him are Mr. House and his son, who are both endowed with high inventive talents.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Queer Electrical Mishap.

A queer accident befell a Portland woman last week. An electric light wire had sagged to the tin roof of her house, and the current was conducted by the water conductor on the outside of the house to a trap in the cellar, thence by the waste pipe to a washstand on the second floor, thence by the water pipe to the street, so that when the lady put her hand on the faucet of the water pipe she couldn't let go. But luckily the wind was blowing, and, as the wires swayed, the water pipe and its adjuncts were electrified with an intermittent current, so the lady was liberated after a few minutes' imprisonment and considerable suffering.—Lewiston Journal.

Joan on the Parle Stage.

Paris is to see "Joan of Arc" upon the stage once more. The town council has voted £300 to bring out, at the Chatelet, Deputy Fabre's drama called after the national heroine. The stage manager, if he does justice to the play in providing fitting accessories, is to be rewarded with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, an honor which has been granted to M. Duquesnel, of the Porte Saint Martin, and M. Honcke, of the Hippodrome, for the intelligent pains they took in bringing out "Joan of Arc" at those places.—Cor. London News.

And More, Too.

The supreme court of this state has just decided a lawsuit begun twenty-one years ago, and involving the title of a $2,700 farm. The lawyers have not only eaten up the farm, but all the contestants could raze and scrape as well. They had hoped the suit would run about ten years longer, as the pay was steady and could be counted on.—Detroit Free Press.
